

Mechanical Music.

The Black Forest is famous for these mechanical organs—orchestrions, as they are called—and in some instances they are brought to great perfection. There is a shop close to the exhibition, bearing the name of Lamy Sohne, full of clocks and singing birds and orchestrions, where you may pass half an hour in a fairland of surprises and all kinds of mechanical music. One morning I went in with an old lady and gentleman—the latter a grave dignitary of the Church of England. "A very tiring place," said the old lady; "all up and down hill; the only fault I find with the Black Forest. Couldn't they level it, my dear?"—to her husband—"or build viaducts or something? Or at the very least, couldn't they organize pony chaises all over the country—like those, you know, that we found so useful at Bournemouth last year?" "Take a chair, my love," said the old gentleman sympathetically without committing himself to an opinion. And he placed one for her, while the young man in the shop, (whose jolly, good-natured face and broad grin delighted one to behold) wound up the orchestrion. The old lady sat down somewhat heavily from sheer exhaustion, and immediately the chair struck up the lively air of "The Watch on the Rhine," with a decidedly martial influence upon its occupant. She sprang from her seat as if it had been a gridiron, and asked her husband reproachfully if he was amusing himself at her expense, and whether her age was not sufficient to secure her from practical joking. "Dear me!" cried he, in amazement, looking at the offending chair as though he expected it to walk away of its own accord. "What a musical nation these Black Foresters are! It's music everywhere. The very chairs are full of it." At this moment the orchestrion struck up a selection from Don Giovanni, and the old lady recovered her amiability in listening to a really splendid instrument. I left them still enjoying it, marveling at all the birds and boxes, and thinking each one more wonderful than another.

Man and Beast.

Man is only a more perfect animal than the rest. He reasons better. But who knows that lower animals have not a particular language? I think it a presumption on our part to deny it, because we do not know. A horse has memory and knowledge and sensibility. He distinguishes his master from the servants, although they are more constantly with them. I myself had a horse who distinguished me from all others, and who showed by his curvettings and superb pace when I was on his back that he carried a personage superior to those by whom he was surrounded. He only allowed myself and a groom to surmount him, and when this man mounted him his action was so different one would have thought he knew when he had a groom only on his back. When I lost my way I threw the reins on his neck, and he always found it. Who can deny the intelligence of dogs? There is a link between all animals, and there are difference gradations up the man who is the most perfect of them all, more or less.—Napoleon I.

Bernhardt's Husband.

M. Aristides Ambrose Damalas, Sarah Bernhardt's husband, is the third son of M. Damalas, who was formerly Mayor of Syra, a post which he renounced after the Greek revolution in 1862. M. Damalas, senior, left $60,000 to each of his four children. M. Aristides did not practice any profession, but had a strong inclination for the stage, and much frequented the company of actors and actresses. Four years ago, when war between Greece and Turkey seemed imminent, he took service in the Greek cavalry, but soon left it and obtained a post as Chancellor at the Greek Consulate at Moscow. This, too, he soon gave up, and returned to Paris, where he spent the last of his fortune. He took a few lessons from Delannay, and entered Sarah Bernhardt's company. As regards the great fortune he is reported to expect, his mother is wealthy, but she is only fifty-four years of age, and is not likely to part with anything in her lifetime.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District. ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880. DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it is very great. Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. 127d.
